Background

In the modern era, there are fast and paradoxical changes in human life. These changes bring several consequences, including those in education. There are various educational issues that emerge, such as moral degradation, gender inequality, the relevance of educational output, violence, distribution, and decentralization.

To respond to these issues, some possible solutions are needed, without which there will be crises in human qualities, which will result in dehumanization. One of them is the existence of education praxis to restore people to their nature. It needs a comprehensive study related to various efforts in handling educational issues, such as by presenting a multidisciplinary study on the development of educational issues through an international conference entitled "Current Issues in Education."
